

NATURE SCAVENGER HUNT

Now that spring is here, it is a good time to play detective outside and go for a scavenger hunt. Whether you are at a State Park campsite, walking on a nature trail or just exploring the backyard, you can find countless living creatures and fascinating objects with different textures, shapes and colors. Make a checklist of the following characteristics and search for objects that have each quality. Beside the list of characteristics, note the object you find by writing its name or drawing a picture so you can remember what you have found. Always remember to respect your natural environment and its living creatures. Do not disturb wildlife or pick wildflowers. Happy exploring!
