

Alicia Tigges, NPCA, CU Boulder/MENV program

Alicia is a native Arizonan who grew up enjoying the adventure and beauty of the American Southwest. She is Masters of the Environment Candidate at University of Colorado Boulder and holds a Bachelors of Science from the University of Arizona in Geography. Alicia has spent 7 years serving as a United States Army officer specializing in logistics and operations. She now uses her diverse skill set as an intern for National Parks Conservation Association working on behavior messaging in public lands for young adults.