

Andy Neinas, Echo Canyon River Expeditions

Andy has spent over thirty years collecting river experiences throughout Colorado and the U.S. visiting many of Colorado's remote mountain communities along the way. As the owner of Echo Canyon River Expeditions, Andy holds a DORA license as well as state and federal permits. Growing his passion into a business and providing outdoor recreational experiences to Colorado's residents and visitors alike remains his driving force. Andy's volunteer career spans two decades with a focus on tourism, water for recreation, habitat, and wildlife, as well as how the public chooses to engage and recreate on public lands. Andy believes rural Colorado values and sensibilities are compatible with a progressive mindset and should guide us as we define our state for future generations.