

Tim Finger, Bureau of Land Management, Recreation Program Lead

Tim Finger is the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Recreation Program Lead for Colorado. The BLM manages over 8.5 million acres in Colorado, has over 8.3 million visits to public lands and handles over 750 Special Recreation Permits (SRPs).

Tim has worked in outdoor recreation programs since 1980 in a number of federal and private businesses, including the National Park Service, the US Forest Service and the BLM. Working in the BLM recreation program since 1988, he has worked in BLM Field offices in California, Utah, and Montana and since 2015 in the Colorado BLM State Office.