

Lark Bunting

The lark bunting is the state bird of Colorado. The male is black with white wings. The female is brown and gray. Lark buntings are small songbirds. They live in the grasslands of Eastern Colorado and eat insects, seeds, grain, and some fruits.

